

Commercial Litigation

With a highly regarded reputation for vigorous, effective advocacy, our commercial litigators tackle a host of commercial disputes on behalf of organizations in almost every imaginable industry. Our ability to identify key issues quickly and craft practical yet often creative strategies and our willingness to wage courtroom battles – if that best serves our clients – often give pause to adverse parties and result in the most favorable resolutions possible for our clients.

Drawing on years of experience handling a spectrum of very large, complex, high-stakes, and cutting-edge cases, our team litigates on both the plaintiffs' and defendants' sides in a variety of state and federal courts and tribunals and jurisdictions around the world. We represent organizations in a diverse array of economic sectors, including financial services, manufacturing, professional services and real estate.

Our clients appreciate our wide-angle perspective and broad knowledge base, relying on us to advise and represent them in disputes involving antitrust matters, business interruption, class actions, contracts, intellectual property, professional liability, toxic torts and many others.

We are particularly experienced and adept in serving both companies and directors and officers in indemnification actions and issues surrounding the advancement of legal defense costs. In addition, our commercial litigation lawyers function as support and reinforcement for our insurance coverage team.